

Brent James was born and raised in Vancouver. He went to high school at Sir Winston Churchill Secondary; then UBC where he studied Commerce. He spent a year at Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Brent received a masters degree in business at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT).

Brent has worked for some of the leading high tech companies in British Columbia including MDI Mobile Data International, MDSI Mobile Data Solutions Inc, and AbeBooks.com

He has participated on the boards of several Jewish organizations including Lubavitch and Talmud Torah. He coached basketball for several years at King David High School.

As for outside interests... Brent has climbed some of the highest mountains in the world. How's that for an "outside" interest!

November 2008