

Jennifer Karro is a chartered accountant who has worked in banking for the past 22 years. During her banking career she has had many roles including commercial lender, real estate lender, senior manager at the Bank of Montreal in the Private Banking unit. She is currently working for Vanity in their Special Loans department doing workout and restructuring of high-risk business loans.

Prior to her banking career Jennifer worked for a few Public Accounting firms including PriceWaterhouse. She sold real estate for a very brief period and spent about 5 years working for a venture capital group (raising capital).

Jennifer was born in South Africa and has lived in Vancouver since she was 12 years old. She is single and has no children. Her interests include fitness, yoga, walking, and swimming. She travels frequently and enjoys an active social life. She has previously been a Board Member of the Vancouver Jewish Community Centre.

November 2008